Dick and Joan Ford have been collecting cast iron toy stoves and automotive toys for almost twenty years. This pursuit has taken them to many areas within the United States, Canada, much of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, and New Zealand. In addition to toys, hobby enjoyment is extended to their antique full-sized automobiles.

What a delightful book. If you think that all the little cast iron stoves are both small and black this will introduce you to a whole new aspect of these delightful collectables. All makes and models are represented with nice photos and information. Reproductions are also indicated. This is a must if you collect these stoves.

An interesting book for the serious and not so serious collector with detailed pictures.

My dad collects these little cast iron stoves. It is so difficult to tell the difference between the real stoves and the fakes. Thank you to the author for giving us the information to identify the difference.

Good book with nice information. New collector, so this was the first book that I have purchased.

Great book with great photos! Thanks!

I purchsed 2 books at the same time from Both of the books were damaged. The stove book looked like it had water damaged because the pages were wavy at the bottom. The 2nd book the front cover had a crease in it because it had been folded over at one time. I know I could of sent them back, but it was'nt worth my time to do so.. I WILL NEVER BUY A BOOK FROM AGIN.
