Customer Reviews

Arranged by season of bloom and emphasizing companion planting by color and height, this work on developing a perennial garden has much to commend it, not the least of which are Lima's commitment to gardening without pesticides and the splendid photographs. The author works valuable tips on creating borders and preferred species chattily into the text. The only flaw is that new gardeners might overlook the offhand references to soil or site requirements; conversely, many senior gardeners, can profit from Lima's work. The book includes lists of sources, a glossary, and index. Highly recommended. Deci Lowry, Chappaqua, N.Y. Copyright 1988 Reed Business Information, Inc.

I bought this product for my daughter who is just getting started gardening. I purchased it because it is one of my old favorites, and was very helpful to me over the years. Beautiful photos in this book are helpful, and I have always liked how it is divided up into blooming seasons.

This book is definitely a favorite of mine in making my garden plans. The authors use their own

Ontario perennial garden to illustrate and guide the reader through the planning and seasonal chores involved in a perennial garden. Although their garden style is more formal than mine, they cover choosing, planting and care of perennials in a way that is easily applied in my more casual cottage gardens. Each month has detailed cultivation and care information for many varieties that will bloom at that time, helping with the daunting task of planning so that a garden has continued bloom throughout the growing season. Attention to garden "bones," the structure that holds the garden, is demonstrated in their snow-covered garden photos. Even barren of life and buried in snow, their gardens are interesting to look at, giving us hope that we too can have lovely gardens year round.

excellent thank you

I use this book like one of my little garden bibles. Easy format, and very informative. I like the fact that he gardens in Ontario, and writes about the same climate that I contend with! Definitely one of my favorite gardening writers!!
