Customer Reviews

"I do think that this is a text that is well put together for strong class discussion." "I look for a text that is flexible and I can use differently each time, an advantage to this text."

Robert P. Yagelski is Associate Vice Provost and Director of the Program in Writing and Critical Inquiry and Professor of English Education in the Department of Educational Theory and Practice at the State University of New York (SUNY) at Albany. He also teaches courses at SUNY-Albany in writing, composition theory and pedagogy, critical pedagogy, and qualitative research methods and helps prepare secondary school teachers. Considered a leading voice in composition theory, Professor Yagelski is widely published in the major journals in the field. He is also director of the Capital District Writing Project, a site of the National Writing Project, and former director of the SUNY-Albany Writing Center. He earned his Ph.D. in Rhetoric and Composition from The Ohio State University.

I rented this book for my English class and while the contents of the book are fine, the physical look of the book is terrible! I understand it is a rented book but the front and back cover looks like it's going to detach itself at any moment. It was very disappointing.

good transaction. no problems encountered

Good and innovative book

It did the job.

Great price for good conditions

Solid English book, used for a boring class and it came in perfect condition with all the necessary stuff included.

Good price for a textbook.

Good book!
